Over the years, various types of experimental projects have been carried out in Italy at different levels of education. CLIL practices have moved from limited small-scale experiments to elaborated projects involving technology, materials design and the creation of CLIL networks. This volume is a collection of works by both language and content teachers at all levels of education who have, in the past six years, embarked on a CLIL-type journey. The book is organized into two sections; the first part highlights some considerations that are more theoretical in nature. The purpose is to provide moments of reflection on these issues and/or bring to light other matters that merit further discussion. The second part is more pragmatic in nature dealing with proposals and projects already implemented in schools and at University. The chapters extol the numerous studies that have been going on in this field in the past decades. They contribute to the existing research in terms of small-scale explorations that highlight the development of CLIL over the years, a cautious progress that has led professionals to move from initial steps or simple trials to more complex tangible CLIL learning objects. A testimony of diversity in approaches showing how rich and vibrant the field of CLIL studies is and will continue to be in the future.

Questo non è un altro libro sulle diete. Certo, si parla di cibo, di alimentazione, ma principalmente si parla di cambiamenti che devono avvenire dentro di voi, se volete veramente raggiungere l'obiettivo della perdita e del successivo mantenimento del peso corporeo. Se sperate di trovare qui la formula magica, la bacchetta della felicità, rimarrete delusi. Forse non ve ne siete accorti, ma nella vita senza sacrifici non si ottiene nulla. Il percorso proposto è una strada in salita, costellata da mille difficoltà: ma una volta arrivati al traguardo quello che avrete imparato sarà vostro per sempre.

Mangiare, libertà o schiavitù? I disturbi alimentari psicogeni: anoressia, bulimia, obesità PM edizioni

In Italia una persona su dieci è obesa e quattro persone su dieci sono in sovrappeso. L'eccesso di peso è la quinta causa di mortalità al mondo ed è all'origine di diverse patologie degenerative. È difficile sottovalutare l'impatto negativo di questo fenomeno sulla salute delle persone e su quella pubblica. "The Economist" ha incluso la lotta all'obesità tra le grandi sfide del XXI secolo. All'origine di tutto c'è un'alimentazione scorretta e la sedentarietà. Due condizioni che sono causa/effetto di uno stile di vita che non favorisce il movimento, dell'abbondanza di prodotti alimentari e delle troppe occasioni per consumare cibi e bevande. Questo ebook, redatto da un team di medici e specialisti e leggibile nel tempo di un pranzo (invece del suo consumo), indica quali siano gli strumenti per misurare, controllare e gestire il proprio peso, con un viaggio nelle "piramidi alimentari" come strumento di valutazione del consumo degli alimenti. Vi troverete l'analisi degli effetti negativi del sovrappeso (tra cui diabete, sindrome metabolica e cancro) e una parte dedicata specificamente all'analisi dei disturbi del comportamento alimentare (DCA) come l'anoressia, la bulimia e altri disturbi dell'alimentazione che affliggono troppa parte della popolazione. Le pagine finali forniscono concreti strumenti per il controllo del proprio peso, per la gestione della propria alimentazione (dal fare la spesa al cucinare) e per incrementare l'attività fisica. Una lettura importante per conoscersi meglio e soprattutto per volersi bene.

Das Politische der Mahlzeit reicht vom komplexen Setting am Familientisch bis zum Staatsbankett, vom Status einer Speise bis zur Verweigerung von Nahrung im Hungerstreik. Die Beiträger/innen des vorliegenden Bandes nutzen diese Spannweite, um das Essen als den politischen Brennpunkt auszuloten, den es nicht nur, aber besonders in der Gegenwart darstellt. The political meal encompasses the complex setting of meals at the family table as well as the state banquet; it reaches from the social status of a dish to the refusal of food in a hunger strike. The contributors of this volume use this breadth to examine food and eating as the kind of political arena they constitute not only but particularly in the present.--

Feed the world! È il potente slogan dell'ONU che raccoglie il grido di dolore delle regioni del mondo che muoiono di fame. Eppure nei Paesi occidentali opulenti si trova il paradosso di ragazze che affamano se stesse. Le ragioni della fame del mondo sono ascritte sia alla cecità di un capitalismo non liberale, sia all'invidia dei Paesi affamati. Anche per le giovani anoressiche valgono le spinte dell'egoismo e dell'invidia che bloccano l'armonica distribuzione dei beni, precipitandole nell'alternativa dell'accumulo o del vuoto? Questo volume tratta del problema drammatico e sempre diffuso dell'anoressia e della bulimia, e delle difficili scelte di trattamenti efficaci. Il nucleo del libro è costituito da testi registrati e trascritti di colloqui condotti secondo il metodo psicoanalitico conversazionale. L'obiettivo della terapia è far riprendere le negoziazioni interrotte delle giovani pazienti con sé e con il mondo, attraverso una bonificazione delle loro energie altrimenti distruttive. Il libro si rivolge prima di tutto alle giovani pazienti cadute nella rete di suggestioni mediatiche irresponsabili, ai terapeuti, agli insegnanti, e naturalmente alle famiglie.

Lettere a Fabiola. Anoressia, bulimia, obesità: le donne si raccontano Jessica Kingsley Pub Figures of Lightness explores the psychoanalytic treatment of eating disorders, using the theories of Freud and Lacan to construct a description of anorexia and bulimia which is based on an awareness of unconscious psychological processes. Gabriella Ripa di Meana proposes an investigative method involving structural linguistics, hermeneutics and formal logic. She analyses the anorectic's and bulimic's sense of identity in Freudian terminology, and examines the combinations of subjection and independence within the family and within modern society. Arguing that our present classifications of eating disorders are too crude, she defines different forms of anorexia and bulimia. She also uses famous works of art and literature to enrich the conclusions she draws from clinical studies and further the understanding of these disorders.

 Psychoanalysis has always been based on the eclipse of the visual and on the primacy of speech. The work of Jacques Lacan though, is strangely full of references to the visual field, from the intervention on the mirror stage in the Forties to the elaboration of the object-gaze in the Sixties. As a consequence, a long tradition of film studies used Lacanian psychoanalysis in order to explain the influence of the subject of the unconscious on the cinematographic experience. What is less known is how the late Lacanian reflection on the topic of analytic formalization opened up a further dimension of the visual that goes beyond the subjective experience of vision: not in the direction of a mystical ineffable but rather toward a subtractive mathematization of space, as in non-Euclidean geometries. In an exhaustive overview of the whole Lacanian theorization of the visual, counterpointed by a confrontation with several thinkers of cinema (Eisenstein, Straub-Huillet, Deleuze, Ranciere), the book will lead the reader toward the discovery of the most counterintuitive approaches of Lacanian psychoanalysis to the topic of vision.

This important and well researched volume examines the clinical phenomenon of eating disorders, exploring their longitudinal risk trajectory and introducing the Mindful Emotion Regulation - Approach (MER-A) as a starting point for intervention. The book reviews various eating problems that can originate from the earliest perinatal phase to early adolescence, and through the MER-A framework focuses on how the principles of mindfulness and the related theoretical and clinical bases underlying the construct of emotional regulation can guide the clinician to a deeper understanding of a patient's disordered eating. Featuring reflections on clinical cases, it includes coverage of patients' difficulties in regulating emotions, their relationships with various eating behaviours and their associated interpersonal features. Mindfulness and Eating Disorders across the Lifespan represents an attempt to provide a complete appreciation of this complex and multifaceted topic, making it of great importance to psychotherapists and related mental health professionals working with eating disorders.

A groundbreaking volume introduces the unique feminist thought of the longstanding Italian group known as Diotima Introducing Anglophone readers to a potent strain of Italian feminism known to French, Spanish, and German audiences but as yet unavailable in English, Another Mother argues that the question of the mother is essential to comprehend the matrix of contemporary culture and society and to pursue feminist political projects. Focusing on Diotima, a community of women philosophers deeply involved in feminist politics since the 1960s, this volume provides a multifaceted panorama of its engagement with currents of thought including structuralism, psychoanalysis, linguistics, and Marxism. Starting from the simple insight that the mother is the one who gives us both life and language, these thinkers develop concepts of the mother and sexual difference in contemporary society that differ in crucial ways from both French and U.S. feminisms. Arguing that Diotima anticipates many of the themes in contemporary philosophical discourses of biopolitics—exemplified by thinkers such as Giorgio Agamben, Antonio Negri, and Roberto Esposito—Another Mother opens an important space for reflections on the past history of feminism and on feminism's future. A dictionary of easy consultation on topics and issues of food science. The characteristic feature of this dictionary are the constant references between the entries that transform it into a short but complete manual of food science. The definitions adopted in this dictionary are in accordance with the current knowledge on the topic of nutrition, but the Author strongly believes that these definitions should not be definite or immutable as if they were dogmas of faith. The proper way to interpret them is the way of hypothesis work; to subject them to verification by the scientific community and to wait until their confirmation or contradiction. This is the mandatory itinerary of the scientific progress. The proclamations that are not based on facts they do not belong to science. When she was 54, Lisa Knopp's weight dropped to a number on the scale that she hadn't seen since seventh grade. The severe food restricting that left her thin and sick when she was 15 and 25 had returned. This time, she was determined to understand the causes of her malady and how she could heal from a condition that is caused by a tangle of genetic, biological, familial, psychological, cultural, and spiritual factors. This compelling memoir, at once a food and illness narrative, explores the forces that cause eating disorders and disordered eating, including the link between those conditions in women, middle-aged and older, and the fear of aging and ageism.
